

Anne Nemer
Assistant Dean, University of Pittsburgh

Anne Nemer is the Assistant Dean and Executive Director of EMBA and Director of Executive Education for the Joseph M. Katz Graduate School of Business of the University of Pittsburgh. She leads all Executive MBA programs and the Center for Executive Education, with locations in S. America, N. America, and C. Europe. Anne is also leading the School's initiatives in Asia, establishing a portfolio of programs for the Indian market.

While managing a global staff and working closely with faculty, the dean's office, corporate partners, and board members, she is responsible for the definition and implementation of a global strategy for program marketing, the branding of the Katz School and the executive education programs, the execution of new program launches and global corporate partnerships, and the identification of local program resources which can be leveraged globally. She works closely with corporate partners to develop custom EMBA programs and executive education programs worldwide, with current projects in the US, Brazil, the Czech Republic, and India. Anne also manages the planning and delivery of the Global Executive Forums, which take place on three continents and involve current students, alumni, board members and local community leaders.

Anne has a Bachelor of Arts degree from the University of Michigan, a Master of Education degree from George Washington University, and an MBA from the University of Pittsburgh. She has more than 20 years of experience in education and teaching, as a teacher and the owner of her own educational consulting firm in Washington DC, with Associação Alumni in Brazil, where she worked with the private and public sector to create and implement educational programs at all levels, and with the Katz Graduate School of Business at the University of Pittsburgh.

She frequently presents on issues related to globalization, innovation, and business education. Recently, Anne was invited to speak on Globalization and Business Education and on Developing a Global Mindset in Mumbai, Ranchi and Chennai, India, at Mackenzie University and the ANAMBA/EMBA Council meeting in Brazil, at the MBA Roundtable in Washington, DC; and Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

Anne is a member of the Board of Directors of the Mattress Factory Art Museum, as well as the India-China-America (ICA) Association, New International Research Review Board. Committed to international issues and education, Anne speaks fluent Portuguese and her interests include travel, reading, hiking, music, and art.
